10 a. m.—President and President-elect leave White House for the Capitol, escorted by Essex Troop, New Jersey Cavalry; Vice-President-elect leaves hotel for Capitol, escorted by Black Horse Troop of Culver Military Academy.

11 a. m.—The doors of the Senate will be opened.

11:50 a. m.—The President, the President-elect, and the Vice-President-elect will enter the Senate Chamber. The Vice-President-elect will take the oath of office and deliver his Inaugural Address.

12:15 p. m.—The President-elect will take the oath of office and deliver his Inaugural Address.

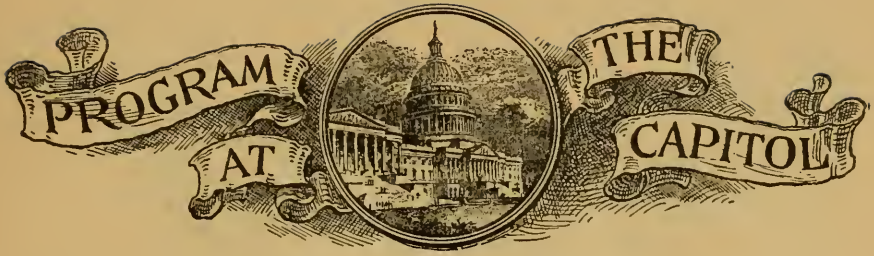

1 p. m.—Inaugural parade starts from the Capitol.

1:25 p. m.—The President-elect and the retiring President will proceed to the White House.

2:45 to 5:30 p. m.—Review of parade by the President from stand in front of the White House.

8 to 10 p. m.—Fireworks on the White House ellipse.

6 to 12 p. m.—Illumination of public buildings, Court of Honor, Pennsylvania Avenue and Peace Monument.

The doors of the Senate Chamber will be opened at 11 o'clock a. m. to those entitled to reserved seats on the floor of the Senate.

The Secretary of State will distribute to Ambassadors and Ministers of Foreign Countries cards of admission to the Senate Chamber, and they will assemble in the Senate marble room, whence they will be shown to seats on the floor of the Senate.

The Supreme Court, headed by its officers, will enter the Senate Chamber in a body at 11:45 a. m. and be announced.

The House of Representatives, headed by its officers, will enter the Senate Chamber in a body at 11:50 a. m. and be announced.

The President and the President-elect will be escorted to the Capitol by the Committee of Arrangements. The President and President-elect will go directly to the President's room, where they will remain until the Committee of Arrangements waits upon them and escorts them to the Senate Chamber.

The Vice-President-elect will be accompanied to the Senate by the Committee of Arrangements, and will go to the Vice-President's room, where the Vice-President-elect will remain until the Committee of Arrangements waits upon him and escorts him to the Senate Chamber, and the oath of office will be administered to him by the President of the Senate pro tempore, just before the adjournment of the present Senate.

After prayer by the Chaplain the Vice-President will deliver his Inaugural Address and will administer the oath of office to the Senators-elect.

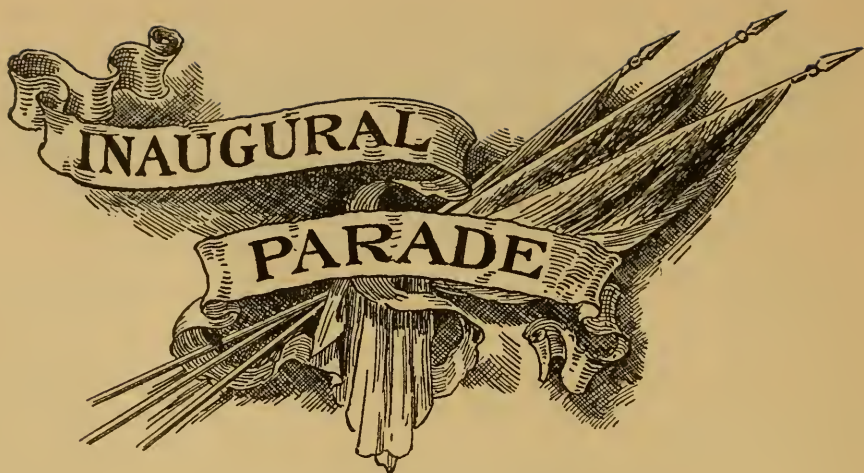

After the organization of the Senate shall have been completed, those assembled in the Senate Chamber will proceed through the rotunda to the platform on the center portico of the Capitol.

When all are assembled the oath of office will be administered to the President-elect by the Chief Justice, or, in his absence, by the senior Justice present. The President will then deliver his Inaugural Address.

On the conclusion of the Address the Members of the Senate, preceded by the Sergeant-at-Arms, Vice-President, and the Secretary, will return to the Senate Chamber. The President and the retiring President, accompanied by the Committee of Arrangements, will proceed to the Executive Mansion.

WINTHROP MURRAY CRANE,
AUGUSTUS OCTAVIUS BACON,
LEE SLATER OVERMAN,
WILLIAM WALLER RUCKER,
FINIS JAMES GARRETT,
WILLIAM BROWN MCKINLEY,

Committee of Arrangements.

The following are the ceremonies of the day:

(a.) The assembly and formation of the Grand Marshal's Staff, the escort to the President-elect, and the escort to the Vice-President-elect, at 9.30 A. M.

(b.) The escort from the White House to the Capitol, at 10.00 A. M.

(c.) The formation for the out-of-door ceremonies at the Capitol and assembly of all troops and organizations participating in the Inaugural Parade, 12.00 M. to 3.00 P. M.

(d.) The escort from the Capitol to the White House, at 1.25 P. M.

(e.) The Review of the Inaugural Parade by the President at 2.45 P. M.

(f.) The dismissal of the Parade at Washington Circle.

INSIGNIA.

The insignia of Marshals and Marshals' Aides will be as follows:

The Chief of Staff and the Adjutant General: Red sash.

Other members of the Grand Marshal's Staff: White sash.

Marshals of Grand Divisions: Red and white sash.

Commanders of Brigades: Blue and white sash.

All staff officers, except those of the Grand Marshal: Blue sash.

ESCORT FROM THE CAPITOL TO THE WHITE HOUSE.

At the conclusion of the Inaugural Address, the President will be received at the speaker's stand by the Grand Marshal and Staff, the two Escorting Troops, the Marshal of the First Grand Division and Staff, and by the First Brigade, First Grand Division. The column will immediately move in the order designated. The escorting column will proceed north from the speaker's stand to the Delaware Avenue entrance to the Capitol grounds, thence west on B Street, south on First Street to the Peace Monument, thence northwest on Pennsylvania Avenue to Fifteenth Street N. W., thence north on Fifteenth Street to Pennsylvania Avenue, thence to the Court of Honor.

THE REVIEW OF THE INAUGURAL PARADE BY THE PRESIDENT.

The Inaugural Parade will be reviewed by the President from his stand on the south side of the Court of Honor at 2.45 P. M.

FORMATIONS.

All mounted escorts and mounted staffs, where numbers will permit, will form in platoons of 12 to 16 files front.

Military organizations will march in closed column of subdivisions in double rank, with not less than 16 nor more than 20 files front, exclusive of guides. Civic organizations will march in platoons of single rank, with not less than 20 files front and at 8 paces between platoons.

CADENCE AND STEP.

The entire march will be in quick time, with cadence of 120 steps per minute, as prescribed in drill regulations. The length of the step will be 30 inches.

BANDS.

In passing the President's stand, each band will play, marching in quick time.

The band of the United States Military Academy, whose position is at the head of the column, is the only band which will play "Hail to the Chief" at any time. The air "Maryland, My Maryland," is reserved for the leading band of the Maryland National Guard.
